Rules/Expectations

PIONEER'S PLAYING FIELD

Participants must understand that our playing field in the outdoors and although Pioneer staff walks through it to check for any hazards, it is the outdoors and therefore does present some risk. Our forest has spots where poison ivy grows, not all surfaces are flat, there could be fallen branches, holes in the ground, and rocks that could cause someone to trip or fall and/or seriously injur themselves. The playing field may be wet and/or muddy so you will be getting dirty. Please wear long pants, long sleeve shirt and boots.

Please bring a change of warm clothes for the end of the day.

PLAYER ELIMINATIONS

Players eliminate each other from the game by hitting their opponents with a paintball that breaks upon impact and leaves them visibly marked with paint. But a paint mark from a paintball that breaks on some other object before striking a player, referred to as splatter, and generally does not count as a hit. Once a player has been marked, they are eliminated from the game.

SURRENDER RULES

Recreational fields often suggests a player within a certain distance of an unaware opponent, usually 10 to 15 feet, should offer the unaware player's surrender by yelling "Surrender" before they may open fire. If the opponent complies, either verbally or by raising their hand or marker, they are considered marked and are out of the match. However, if they refuse or attempt any hostile action, such as turning to fire, the challenging player may fire upon them. Getting hit by a paintball from close range can be painful, and it is considered polite and good sportsmanship to offer an opponent the opportunity to surrender when possible instead of unnecessarily shooting at close range. It is also good policy to fire at their boots.
